To Whom It May Concern:

Re: Eric M. Ambriza

This confirms that Eric M. Ambriza was employed at the Mozal Smelter from August, 2013 to October, 2013. He was hired in the position of 1Desktop Deployment Engineer by Business Connexion Mozambique, and contracted to Mozal for the 1Desktop Project Duration.

1Desktop Project Objective:

This project is a BHP Billiton Initiative to deliver an enterprise desktop service that is agile, scalable, secure and relevant across all sectors of the business. The enabling platforms will reduce TCO, standardize technologies and operations, improve productivity and simplify future desktop transitions.

Deployment Engineer Responsibilities

As a Deployment Engineer, Eric M. Ambriza was responsible for deploying 1desktop image via PXE boot or media build; migration of user data from Windows XP environment into Windows 7 environment and was called upon to directly engage with the Mozal User Base and act at the face of the project; interacting personally with the users.

Eric M. Ambriza consistently conducted himself professionally at all times. He made sure he completed his given task on time and maintained high level of communication with the users in case there are any delays in delivering the workstations at agreed timeframe.

Eric M. Ambriza has also demonstrated his innovative thinking in identifying areas of improvement within project delivery.

Eric M. Ambriza position with the Mozal Smelter was project-based thus of a temporary nature and has come to an end.

I wish him the best in his future endeavors and recommend him as focused worker.
